

DISCLAIMER

Whilst these instructional videos and guidance have been produced to guide you through completing the void preparation to cover all and any aspects of repairs required, they are not exhaustive.

As you are working in the apartment, and therefore spending longer than those recording the video, you may see and find other areas that require attention. Please carry out the necessary works to resolve the issues taking before and after pictures and providing them to the office so it can be noted with the file.

We must ensure we are producing a high-quality product for our customers at all times, and you are responsible for the end condition. If you require assistance, it is for you to make this known and organise with the relevant team member with the appropriate skillset to assist.
